

Hugh Jackman plans on walking away from the role of Wolverine after Logan, and that means we can forget about seeing the clawed mutant in both Deadpool 2 and X-Force. To say that's a shame would be an understatement, and the thought of these two never crossing paths is pretty damn disappointing. However, Ryan Reynolds is hoping to change that, but he actually wants your help to make it a reality! "I want Deapdool and Wolverine in a movie together," the actor confirmed in an interview with Entertainment Weekly. "What we're gonna have to do is convince Hugh. If anything, I'm going to need to do what I can to get my internet friends back on board to help rally another cause down the line." It was the enthusiasm of fans that helped make Deadpool, so assuming Logan is a hit and there's a vocal enough response to these comments, perhaps Jackman really could be convinced to return! "Hugh Jackman is one of the

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/deadpool/ryan-reynolds-wants-your-help-in-convincing-hugh-jackman-to-make-a-a147419>