

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=27718&t=Sam_Rockwell_Talks_iCowboys_and_Aliensi

Sam Rockwell recently talked with Shortlist.com. He had plenty to say about how he started in commercials and the path his career has taken up to this point. He also had some things to say about the upcoming Cowboys and Aliens. This from Shortlist.com... So now you're in Cowboys And Aliens — how's that looking? Let me tell you, this is going to be a fun movie. I think we pulled it off; it's a mix of genres. I think because of the title people think it's a comedy, and it's not — it's like Unforgiven meets Close Encounters. Oh that old cliché... Yeah, that old cliché. I don't think it's really been done before, the only thing I liken it to is a movie like From Dusk Till Dawn — it seems all very 'cops and robbers' and all of a sudden there's vampires. It's like that, in that you have a very formulaic western