

Superhero Hype had the chance to catch up with Scarlett Johansson recently and asked the actress outright what the chances are of us seeing her star as Black Widow in her own spin-off movie. "I love playing the Widow. I think she's got a very interesting past, a lot of storylines to explore, and certainly Kevin (Feige) loves that character," she said. "I think that Marvel has a very personal relationship with their fans, and I think if the fans want it, and the audience wants it, nothing's impossible. I would love to explore that option as well. Like I said, I love the character and it would be nice to see something nice and gritty." Of course there's still the rumoured S.H.I.E.L.D and Hawkeye spin-off's that Black Widow could feature in, but looking to a movie which HAS been confirmed, what of a possible appearance in Iron Man 3?
