

Snagging the cover story for next month's Vanity Fair issue, actress Scarlett Johansson elaborated on various past events of her life including reprising her Iron Man 2 role, 'Natasha Romanoff,' Black Widow, in Marvel's The Avengers. Essentially discussing the intense training and fighting required for the highly-anticipated action-packed flick, read an excerpt below. "Even though Iron Man 2 was 'one-for-them,' I'd never done anything like that before. I'd never been physically driven in something, or a part of something so big," Johansson recalled. "For The Avengers, I've spent so many months training with our stunt team, and fighting all the other actors, it's crazy. I do nothing but fight—all the time. I have humongous muscles, by the way." She offered me a bicep. I hesitated to touch celebrity flesh. "Go on." I gave it a gentle squeeze. She was right; it was hard as a rock. Marvel's The Avengers is the

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=50109&t=Scarlett_Johansson_Recalls_Enduring_Intense_Training_Fights_For_iThe_Avengersi