

Before I continue, I am putting a SPOILER WARNING! If you don't want to know anything about Leviathan, please, don't read anything below. Last month, a New York shooting schedule was leaked online revealing some big action sequences. The most interesting part was something about mysterious Leviathan, which caused a big discussion. Some said it might be an alien ship, maybe a part of the big camera that is used for filming but there was also an article where someone mentioned via Twitter that "Leviathan" is actually a sea-monster. Well, a source close to the production of the Joss Whedon-directed film, who've provided reliable scoops in the past, shared some brief details about it. So, here we go. According to my source, Leviathan is indeed a giant creature. I can't say for sure if it's a sea-monster, but it is definitely a big CGI creation. I have been told that this monster is

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=48935&t=SCOOP_Details_On_The_Mysterious_Leviathan_In_The_Avengers_Released