

Can you guys talk a little bit about how it's like to finally have it as your number one assignment? Kurtzman: The studio was bullish and that is great. That is what you want. They set a date and we all felt strongly that we did not want to make the movie if we didn't feel that we could match the enthusiasm and love that we brought to the first one. To put the movie out to just meet a date would not have been the way to make the movie. I think we owe too much to the fans and to ourselves to not do it that way. We really wanted to take our time until we felt that we had a story that we could stand behind and that we felt was worthy of a sequel. Orci: And Damon was finishing Lost and we

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/debbiedowner/news/?a=43187&t=Screenwriters_Alex_Kurtzman_and_Roberto_Orci_Talk_iStar_Treki_Sequel