

(Sorry for the quality of the article, I'm doing this at 3am) As I took my first steps around the floor on preview night, I bumped into Seth Green. The little guy was in a hurry, so I didn't get a chance to talk to him. People were already dressed, slave Leias abound, and celebrities and press were interviewing people. I was in the DC booth looking for exclusive Wayne Casino chips from DC's Flashpoint. After about 20 minutes of looking and not finding anything I decided to talk to Jim Lee. Mr. Lee was behind a counter talking to other people, so I approached him, shook his hand and felt honored to be in his presence (I like his art). He was playing with some chips in his hand, and I asked where he got it. They guy was nice enough to give them to me.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/HeroesInSociety/news/?a=42391&t=SDCC_11_Preview_Night_Experience