

Coming directly from the San Diego Comic-con convention floor, via ToyArk & the great RimBreaks, six-inch action figures modeled after the "big three" of next summer's highly-anticipated film The Avengers were recently put on display. And while the figures evidently showcase the new look for Captain America, Iron Man, and Thor, merchandising artwork displayed behind them may reveal that the famous 'Stark Tower' could make an appearance in the film. Check them out below with more to come.
