

One of the most celebrated comic runs ever is returning with fresh content next year as part of Vertigo's 20 Year Anniversary and DC's top execs took a moment to talk about what that means for the industry's top 2 publishers. The two execs spoke glowingly of Gaiman and artist JH Williams III and revealed that the series will be available, same-day digital. Interestingly enough, Dan Didio referred to the title as Sadman: Year Zero and its been confirmed that the series takes place before Sanman #1 so this could indeed be the title of the series. Stay tuned, more details as we have them.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=63685>