

Sean Bean was on the red carpet last night for the "Mirror Mirror" premiere, where he saw the brand new promotional poster for "Game of Thrones" Season 2 which featured his head on a pike. According to Access Hollywood Bean got a real kick out of seeing the decapitated Ned Stark. "Have you seen that?" he said to one of his managerial reps, who accompanied him on the red carpet. "I like that! I like that," Sean said when his laughter subsided. He went on to confirm he hadn't seen the poster previously, and that HBO wouldn't be using Ned Stark in Season Two. "They're not! I'm dead." However, like fans of the show, Bean said he's excited to see the second season and will definitely be tuning in to the premiere. "It'll be quite exciting," he added. "Yeah! I've got a lot of friends in it -- people I know and stuff like that.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=56575>