

While The Green Hornet managed to collect almost $230 million at the box office, many fans were kinda dissapointed with Michel Gondry's take on the character. Steve 'Frosty' Weintraub from Collider had a chance to sit down with Seth Rogen and ask him if there are any plans for the sequel: There you go. I have to say, I really enjoyed The Green Hornet, great action, fun characters. It definitely wasn't the worst CBM of this year. What do you think of this?
