

Bonafide hottie Jaimie Alexander, who plays Asgardian goddess of war Sif, is featured in the latest issue of Maxim Magazine. She talks about the sheer fun of working on Thor as well as the hard work that went into it--at one point she had the bruises to prove it. She also talks about how, prior to being cast in the role of Sif that, she would have loved to have played Wonder Woman--but has changed her mind on that as of late...Check out the feature to find out the reason why! This issue of Maxim is out in newsstands now. For more photos and more on the interview, hit the link below.
