

In an interview with Collider Levy speaks very openly about being attached to direct The Flash for WB. He reveals that he was offered the job but wanted a bit more experience before taking on that type of big movie. With Real Steel sure to be a big hit could he take another look at bringing the fastest man alive to the big screen? He certainly doesn't rule it out.. I was attached to The Flash. You know...I'm going to give you the candid answer. After Night at the Museum, I got offered The Flash. I was like, "Well, first of all, what?! Why?" I know Night at the Museum was a big commercial movie and had a lot of visual effects, but... Look, I love The Flash. Mostly because it was this nickname I had in my youth. And I liked it because I

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/rorschachsrants/news/?a=47069&t=Shawn_Levy_On_What_Happened_To_His_iFlashi_Movie_Could_He_Go_Back_To_It