

As filming progresses for Marvel and Joss Whedon's crossover spectacle The Avengers, production is moving on location, rather than a studio. And while it's known the Nick Fury-directed S.H.I.E.L.D organization will be branding Acura vehicles, heavy duty trucks as well the Helicarrier, it seems they'll also have their own jet fighters with a prop spotted near the set. Click Image To Enlarge Though only speculation, this aircraft strongly resembles the Quinjets, which in the comics were assigned to both S.H.I.E.L.D. and the Avengers, and even more interestingly said to be in the film. Could this be our first glimpse of the team's Quinjet? Marvel's The Avengers picks up when an unexpected enemy emerges that threatens global safety and security. And Nick Fury, director of the international peacekeeping agency known as S.H.I.E.L.D., finds himself in need of a team to pull the world back from the brink of disaster. With director
