

Was it the story? Was it the girls? Or was it the stylish visuals which captivated audiences and critics alike back in 2005? Seven years later, after numerous rumors and false starts, whispers picked up steam earlier this year and we received official confirmation from Robert Rodriguez back in March. Now find out when cameras finally roll. If production is reminiscent of the previous film, don't expect any set photos for this one. Get More: Movie Trailers, Movies Blog

"I'm not sure if I'm supposed to say that, but I'm going to say November, I'm going to be honest and put it out there, said Dawson. "It's sort of a prequel to the 'Sin City' we've already watched, so you'll understand the references we were making in that one. The new face thing [for Clive Owen's character], all of that interesting stuff. You might have to figure out which one's me at some

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GraphicCity/news/?a=67481>