

A few days back we reported on The Flash's Carlos Valdes (Vibe) revealing that Gypsy would be making her way to Central City when the CW show returns from its winter hiatus in 2017, and now The Wrap has the scoop on who'll be playing her. According to them, Jessica Camacho will be suiting up as the inter-dimensional runaway at some point, though they don't specify which episode she'll debut in. Gypsy's power set (invisibility, fear-based illusions, among others) alone should make her a very interesting addition to Team Flash, and her introduction also opens up the possibility of seeing some version of Justice League Detroit assemble in the future. Camacho will be best known for her role as Sophie Foster on Sleepy Hollow, but she's also appeared in the likes of Minority Report, Longmire, and Bones.
