

There's been plenty of buzz for Peter Parker's first solo adventure in the Marvel Cinematic Universe, Spider-Man: Homecoming, especially after new footage from the film screened at Brazil's CCXP on Friday. With plenty of rumors that the first trailer will be debuting very soon (possibly with the release of Rogue One: A Star Wars Story), a new logo has seemingly debuted online via the film's official account on Chinese microblogging service, Weibo. The new logo, while very similar, sports a much cleaner, three dimensional design than the initial one revealed back in April, along with the Marvel Studios logo on top. Logo changes are not uncommon for Marvel films; Guardians of the Galaxy Vol. 2 also received a logo update between its initial announcement and official unveiling. What do you think of the new logo? Sound off below! Spider-Man: Homecoming slings into theatres on July 7, 2017.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/spider-man/spider-man-homecoming-seemingly-receives-a-much-cleaner-updated-title-a147299>