

X-Men has always been a franchise I've had a hard time liking. There are a lot of interesting characters, but that in itself is the problem; there are too many characters. All of the comic books, TV series, and movies come across as crammed, leaving many of the potentially great characters undeveloped and hard to care about. However, I seem to be in the minority on this opinion because boy do people love these things. Not to say anyone is wrong or right, it's just some people think the dynamic really works and some people, myself included, do not. I was not a big fan of the original X-Men movie, I thought the second one was pretty good but also one of the most overrated comic book movies of all time, I did not like the third one, and I hated X-Men Origins: Wolverine. So even though X-Men: First Class looked

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/x-men\_movies/x-men\_first\_class/news/?a=38779&t=Spoiler-free\_Review\_of\_IX-Men\_First\_Class