

DC: Rebirth has been full of twists and turns for Wonder Woman; not only has she discovered she has a long lost twin brother, but the Amazonian princess has sensed the presence of a force that has been altering her life. The latest issue delivered yet another gut punch for the character. The story sees Diana and Steve Trevor successfully returning to her homeland of Paradise Island, but the both of them sense that something is amiss in their surroundings. Trevor removes Diana's silver bracelets, and as he does, the island fades into a barren wasteland. Diana, in grief, realizes that she has never once returned to the island since the first time she left with Trevor. This is a pretty shocking twist, as it nulls much of Wonder Woman's prior history. Could this be the work of Doctor Manhattan, or perhaps another nefarious force is pulling Diana's strings? Let us know what you think below.
