

The Robocop script has leaked online, and opinions seem to be mostly positive even though just last month HitFix's Drew McWeeny gave it a thorough bashing. One of the opinions that was most insightful and provides the most detail comes from SHH's Solidus. Drew said the satire was missing, however Solidus had a completely different view, calling it "very satirical." It was actually a feature in the script that he was "most impressed" with. He also felt as though this remake of Robocop had more similarities with Neill Blomkamp's sleeper hit, District 9. As this Robocop will actually start off quite human and slowly begin to lose his humanity and become more of a machine, just like Wikus (Sharlto Copley) transforming into the alien creatures referred to as Prawns. ROBOCOP'S UPDATED TECHNOLOGY He moves quick. At first as Robo 1.0 he is somewhat slow. But he does move fast, he can run up to

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=66822>