

If you read my article yesterday then it's no surprise that Bane's mysterious device is actually a fusion reactor. Today, we have some more new information on the device. It comes from a fictional letter that was included in one of those pesky tie-in books for the film. The letter is from Lucius Fox (Morgan Freeman) and it's intended for Miranda Tate (Marion Cotillard). WAYNE ENTERPRISES FUSION REACTOR One such project is a clean fuel source - a new kind of safe energy poised to change the world: a fusion reactor that produces zero radiation and uses no fossil fuels. Rigorous testing is underway to eliminate all potential complications prior to launching the reactor on a global scale. Many aspects of this project are classified due to their sensitive nature. The reactor is kept below Wayne Enterprises recycling plant located on the Gotham River. In the event of a

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=62602>