

Some new concept art for the season 7 finale of Game of Thrones has leaked, and it's bound to get fans even more excited for the show's penultimate year. The image, which is actually a mashup of stills and artwork, depicts a reunion between Tyrion Lannister and his old pal Bronn, along with Jon Snow with his back to us. The trio seems to be about to enter the ruins of the Dragonpit, which is where The Lannisters used to house their dragons back in the day, and reportedly where Dany will be taking her brood of fire-breathing beasts at some point next season. Though Jon and Tyrion did meet briefly back in season 1, it's been a very long time since the two crossed paths so it'll be interesting to see how that dynamic has changed after everything they've been through since.
