

Doctor Strange's mid-credits scene sees the Sorcerer Supreme meeting with Thor and agreeing to help him and Loki find Odin so they'll return to Asgard and stop plaguing Earth. When Den of Geek caught up with director Scott Derrickson, they asked him how that all came about, and he confirmed that it was indeed Taika Waititi who shot it. However, will it end up being part of Thor: Ragnarok next year? "Taika [Waititi] shot that - I can't say if it's from Thor 3 or not, but we had our set up and were going to strike it after I finished shooting and it's a very expensive set with the chamber of relics and the window and everything... I don't know where they were on the script process, but it was before they were in production. Taika wrote that scene and came in and shot it. We had no specific intention at that point to use it as the tag, but after

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/doctor_strange/spoilers-scott-derrickson-talks-doctor-stranges-mid-credits-scene-a146367