

"The Avengers cameo that you will see, when that movie opens up, is possibly one of my best," he told Collider in a recent interview. "And you know good mine have been, but it is so funny. I can't tell you what it is 'cause they'd kill me, but it is funny. So is the Spider-Man one, by the way. They're deciding to make my cameos a little funnier. They know that's what brings the audiences in, of course, so they've gotta play them up." Now that those two are completed, his next cameo will more than likely be in Thor 2 and Iron Man 3 (as long as they're shot in a location he can get to). As for whether he's already preparing for the latter, he said: "I haven't done that cameo yet. It's almost scary 'cause they just give me a date. They'll say, "Stan, come over next Thursday

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=56711>