

Yesterday, we received confirmation from Chris Pine that the upcoming Star Trek sequel was nearing its end of production. Now, a reader for Ain't It Cool News sent the following spoilers for the J.J. Abrams-directed film to the site. The spoilers reveal whether or not Leonard Nimoy will reprise his role as older Spock (which was suggested in an interview that the actor gave recently), who Benedict Cumberbatch is playing and a battle scene in the film. Despite AICN saying that "there is a strong "credibility of circumstance" here", the following info hasn't been officially confirmed, so take the info with a grain of salt until we receive further confirmation. Highlight To Read The Spoilers. Leonard Nimoy's Spock is definitely in the film and will have long and "stately" robes. Benedict Cumberbatch = Khan. There's a "deep space" smackdown between Kirk and Khan in space suits. "Flying" suits per

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/BatFreak/news/?a=58864>