

Movie Web has gotten an exclusive sit-down chat with actor Tyrese Gybson, where he speaks on the possibility of producer Steven Spielberg taking over the Michael Bay-directed franchise, after Transformers: Dark Of The Moon. "If Michael Bay decides to come back for Transformers 4, I'll be there. We'll make it happen. (Right now), I think we are all exhausted with the process. If this movie does what we are all assuming it's going to do, then, I think its time to revisit this conversation. When it's time. There are no concepts, no direction, no nothing for Transformers 4, because everyone has been so focused on Transformers: Dark of the Moon. But here is the safety net. Are you ready for this? Michael Bay decides to not come back for Transformers 4. There is always Steven Spielberg! I am not saying that Steven Spielberg is for a fact going to direct Transformers 4.

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MovieAddict/news/?a=39608&t=Steven_Spielberg_To_Helm_iTransformers_4i