

Now that his budding relationship with Kara has come to an end, what's next for photographer James Olsen in Supergirl? The Girl of Steel has found her feet as a superhero and no longer really needs his help and guidance, so Superman's best pal is now going to suit up as a vigilante. The first details about that were revealed yesterday, but The CW has today released the first image of him as The Guardian. "James Olsen takes on the mantle of the classic DC Comics hero, Guardian," the Supergirl producers said in a statement. "With his trademark shield intact, James will fight to protect National City alongside Supergirl." Interestingly, he'll be keeping his new job a secret from the hero, but Winn is going to help him fight crime as a sidekick of sorts. What do you think of this take on the vigilante?

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/dc_tv/supergirl/supergirl-first-official-image-of-mehcad-brooks-james-olsen-a145947