

Justice League Action looks to be a mix of lighthearted action and fast-paced storylines that will converge into a single season-long plot - a perfect mixture for newcomers and old school DC fans alike. If you're still on the fence after Friday's premiere, perhaps this clip from the next episode will give you a nudge in the right direction? Can Cyborg and Toyman finally decide the long-debated argument of who would win between Batman and Superman? For my review of the season premiere, CLICK HERE. The world's greatest DC Super Heroes are heading to Cartoon Network in the premiere of Justice League Action, an all-new animated series that will kick off with "Shazam Slam," a four-part special event debuting, Friday, Dec. 16 at 6:00 p.m. (ET/PT). Produced by Warner Bros. Animation and based on iconic DC characters, Justice League Action will premiere new episodes Saturday mornings on Cartoon Network, beginning Dec. 24.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/justice_league/superman-throws-the-s-in-a-new-justice-league-action-clip-a147585