

Writes trendhunter.com, "Mauro Perucchetti's interpretation of Batman is posed very much like Adam in Michelangelo's 'The Creation of Adam,' once again connecting his work with the brilliant art of people that came before him. Superman, a character many consider to be godlike, stares down on the Dark Knight in the same position God does in the aforementioned painting. Maybe centuries from now, an artist will mimic these poses, basing their sculptures on Perucchetti's work."
