

The Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. may have dealt with Eli Morrow with the help of the now MIA Ghost Rider in the winter finale a couple of weeks ago, but it looks like they're going to be tested by several new enemies when the show returns in the new year. The promo for this episode already made it pretty clear that android Aida was being set up as the new big bad, but the synopsis below reveals that the team will also be up against a more powerful incarnation of the Watchdog group, and their "mysterious benefactor." On the heels of their encounter with Ghost Rider, their strangest phenomenon yet, the Agents of S.H.I.E.L.D. suddenly find themselves up against a myriad of new and ongoing threats: The anti-Inhuman Watchdogs are gaining political influence with Senator Nadeer, and uniting behind a mysterious benefactor. Meanwhile, unbeknownst to the team, Aida has kidnapped Agent May and replaced her with a Life Model Decoy. Aida's evil plans
