

With all the hype surrounding this summers slate of CBM's, many have forgotten, or simply overlooked the fact that Director Andrew Stanton has already wrapped filming on the John Carter of Mars movie based on the writings of Edgar Rice Burroughs. Although JCOM is not due out in theaters until March of next year it sports an incredible cast of actors, in what should be at the very least, a visually stunning movie. Taylor Kitsch who plays the title character in the film sat down with MTV News only yesterday and stated that although the film is a year away, he has had the opportunity to see the trailer. "We're doing some fun little pickups right now. I saw the official trailer hours ago. [I'm] over the moon. We are just ... it's a special film. It's going to be a good ride. I'm pumped!" "Man, I would love to get going and

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/GulfCoastAvengers/news/?a=35429&t=Taylor_Kitsch_is_Pumped_About_the_Trailer_for_iJohn_Carter_of_Marsi