

Here is what I was told. Following on from the last scene description I gave you which saw Bane freed from a prison by the League Of Shadows.. A large team in black hoods storm a room holding Tom Hardy as Bane led by what looked like a young ra's and kill off some stragglers. Well apparently he goes back in order to free 2 children that have also been imprisoned. For what reason my source did not know, that was pretty much all he had to add. But I found it very interesting. This is pure speculation but could we be dealing with a sympathetic villain like Spider-Man 2's Doc Ock? Or more recently Loki in Thor? I know these villains can come in for a criticism among fans but I personally feel it gives the character a bit of weight. Obviously it's nice to see an amoral bastard like The Joker
