

Having starred in not only movies like Batman Begins and The Dark Knight, but also Driving Miss Daisy, The Shawshank Redemption, Million Dollar Baby and Unforgiven, it's no surprise that Morgan Freeman is now joining the likes of Walt Disney, Anthony Hopkins, Steven Spielberg and Robert De Niro as a recipient of the Cecil B DeMille Award for lifetime achievement. The award is presented by the Hollywood Foreign Press Association for outstanding contribution to the world of entertainment and will be awarded to the actor at a Los Angeles ceremony on 15 January, 2012. It was announced earlier this week by Man of Steel actress Amy Adams who described Freeman as "one of the most recognisable figures in American cinema." She added: "He has amazing screen presence, an unmatched voice and quiet dignity, and has created some of the most memorable portrayals ever recorded on film." STARRING: Christian Bale as Bruce Wayne/Batman Michael Caine as
