

Chatting briefly with USA Today, the actors behind the "big three" of Marvel Studios' The Avengers, Chris Evans, Robert Downey Jr., and Chris Hemsworth discuss the successful box office results for their solo flicks, and how it's influences their bond. With a line from the studios' president, Kevin Feige, read on below! Hemsworth says, "I shot [Chris Evans] a few texts over (opening) weekend. "It was like, 'You beat The Wizard! Down with Potter!' With Captain America working it's like, 'OK good,'" says Hemsworth. "We're still on track with this ensemble. It gives each of us a bump." Downey says, "I'll just say it, There's an aspect of my psyche that doesn't want anyone to do as well as me...it's part of human nature, survival of the fittest and all that. But it's so nice to root for each other in Hollywood," he adds. "Intentionally or not, Marvel has created an atmosphere

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/MarvelFreshman/news/?a=44124&:t=iThe_Avengersi_Crew_On_Marvels_Box_Office_Success_Their_Bond