

The guys over at BadAssDigest have done a little digging and in the process have seemingly put an end to the recent rumors that the theft of Samuel L. Jackson's script had brought the production of the highly anticipated movie to a halt. Interestingly, they also seem to have some inside knowledge about the contents of that same script and briefly detail what they made of it. Reports are spreading online that production on The Avengers has been halted after a copy of the script leaked online. I've talked to a couple of sources and neither of them can confirm this and believe that the production is trundling along just fine. I'm still waiting for official word from Disney. UPDATE: I just got off the phone with Disney and this was the first the publicist had heard about it. Also, the leaked script gives almost nothing away. The Avengers is a movie that

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=36436&t=iThe_Avengersi_Filming_Has_NOT_Been_Stopped_Brief_Details_On_Contents_Of_Script