

The other day, MTV posted a humorous skit involving Ben Affleck's The Accountant co-star, Anna Kendrick, jokingly asking the actor/director if she could play Robin in his upcoming solo Batman movie. It wasn't meant to be taken seriously, but many fans got behind the idea of Kendrick suiting up as an incarnation of The Dark Knight's sidekick, and now it looks like Joe Manganiello is determined to keep interest alive. The former True Blood actor shared the below image to his official Instagram page, along with the caption "Deathstroke and Robin." Some fans took this to mean that the actress had actually landed the role, but it's far more likely the pair are just having some fun here. Would you like to see Kendrick as Robin in Ben Affleck's The Batman? How about Batgirl instead? let us know in the usual place.

#Deathstroke and #Robin #MoheganSun20 A photo posted by Joe Manganiello (@joemanganiello) on Oct 15, 2016 at 8:26pm PDT

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/batman/the-batman-actor-joe-manganiello-keeps-the-anna-kendrick-as-robin-hype-a146040>