

Here is a little something different that we don't normally cover here at ComicBookMovie.com. Today we are looking at one of the coolest home theaters you will ever come across. This home theater is based on one couples love of the Star Wars franchise and their love shows in quality and care taking in putting this room together! This Star Wars inspired theater rivals the LucasArts Ranch in regards to authentic Star Wars memorabilia. This Grand Imperial theater is owned by a couple passionate Star Wars fans just outside of Seattle. Designed to appear like the command deck of the Death Star from The Empire Strikes Back, you will find a variety of life sized Star Wars characters in the theater including C-3PO, Boba Fett and Han Solo frozen in carbonite. The entrance to the theater is covered in poster cases from the three original Star Wars movies as well

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/johnarturo/news/?a=61305>