

Depending on your opinion of Arrow, this will either make or ruin your day. According to TV Line, after just two episodes, the CW has made the decision to pick up the series for a full 22-episode run. That's about all the details we have right now, but after the series premiere became the network's most watched episode of a TV show in over three years, this isn't really all that surprising (especially after ratings dropped by only 15% by the second episode). Best way to start a Monday? Getting picked up for your back nine episodes. Thwick. #Arrow— Stephen Amell (@amellywood) October 22, 2012

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=69093>