

Anne was happy to pour on the accolades for her new director and the male lead, Christian Bale, but not very forthcoming about her take on Catwoman. The only thing that she would say is that her version will fit into the Batman universe that Chris Nolan has created. How do you learn your lines if you can't even take the script home with you? Hathaway: I read it through once really fast and I went back and read over all of my scenes and tried to memorize them as much as I could instantly. It's cool, you can call Chris and ask "what is this scene about again?" and eventually you get a copy of the script. But everything is done with the upmost secrecy. When I screen tested, I took the sides home with me. And it was really awkward because the producer had to hunt

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/nailbiter111/news/?a=60558>