

Lucky fans, who had the opportunity to watch the movie at yesterday's glamorous New York screening have started to share their reactions and there's a chance that it can be the first universally acclaimed film based on a video game! Not surprisingly, the show belongs to Michael Fassbender (who's also one of the Assassin's Creed producers) and his amazing performance as Callum Lynch and his ancestor, Aguilar de Nerha. The other great thing fans surely appreciate is the director Justin Kurzel's faithfulness to the source material - but for people unfamiliar with the games series, this could be a potential problem. We still have to wait for the full reviews (rumor says that embargo will be lifted one day before the movie releases) but it sounds like 20th Century Fox in collaboration with New Regency and Ubisoft deliver the movie that no one will be ashamed of. Check out some more fans reaction below. Just finished watching #AssassinsCreedMovie and had the pleasure to

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/video_games/the-first-fan-reactions-from-the-assassins-creed-premiere-are-here-a147526