

In a shocking turn of events, The Flash's season two finale revealed that the man behind the iron mask throughout the entire season was Jay Garrick, aka The Flash of Earth 3, who also happens to be Henry Allen's Earth 3 counterpart. So far, John Wesley Shipp has only had to worry about being a father to Barry (Grant Gustin) for the past two seasons, but now that he's got a suit of his own, he'll be taking an entirely different approach when working with Barry as Jay Garrick. &quot;i've had a blast setting the template for Jay and making sure that his temperature is almost the polar opposite of Henry,&quot; Shipp told Entertainment Weekly. &quot;Henry's very warm, very emotionally invested in Barry and Barry's well being. With Jay, it's more like, "Okay, I'm the keeper of the Speed Force, you're a new Flash, what are you doing? Yeah, I look like your dad, sorry about that. Big boy rules. So you

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/dc\_tv/the\_flash/the-flash-john-wesley-shipp-says-jay-garrick-will-be-the-polar-a145675