

Taika Waititi's Thor: Ragnarok isn't due to hit theaters until around this time next year, so it'll probably be quite some time before we see an official trailer for the Marvel threequel. In the meantime though, we have this fan-made effort from the guys over at We Got This Covered. The trailer uses footage of Thor and The Hulk from their previous Marvel movie appearances, but obviously they had to improvise when it came to the likes of Cate Blanchett's Hela, so her scenes are taken from the first Elizabeth movie and The Lord of the Rings. There are also shots from Immortals and John Carter in there. What do you think? Sound off in the usual place.

Read more: https://www.comicbookmovie.com/thor/thor_ragnarok/the-god-of-thunder-and-the-incredible-hulk-take-on-hela-in-a146109