

According to Deadline, Joel Kinnaman has been offered to play RoboCop in the upcoming film. Kinnaman is currently playing detective 'Stephen Holder' in AMC's The Killing. I'm told that MGM is making an offer to Joel Kinnaman to play the title role in its Robocop remake. The film's being directed by Jose Padilha, helmer of two action packed installments of Elite Squad. After watching the first season of The Killing, I think I can safely say this guy is really good actor. Not only is he the best part of the show in my opinion, but his performance with each episode is just getting better and better. I could definitely see him as RoboCop. What do you think?
