

Thanks to photographer Rick Zornow (via Watchers on The Wall) we have some very nice snaps from the Los Barruecos set of HBO's Game of Thrones. The images provide a great look at the huge team of extras that will make up the Lannister army, with Nikolaj Coster-Waldau (Jaime) and Jerome Flynn (Bronn) also visible on horseback. We're not certain who the Lannisters have gathered here to fight, but it's not like these guys are short on enemies heading into the show's penultimate season. Chances are it's either The remaining Tyrells, or maybe even a combined Tyrell/Martell force. We also have a much better look at Bronn and Jaime courtesy of Twitter user Adrián Alonso, and if you look closely at the latter's scabbard, you'll notice that the Kingslayer seems to be sporting Joffrey's Valerian Steel sword, Widow's Wail.

Game of Thrones returns in 2017.

Read more: <https://www.comicbookmovie.com/tv/the-lannister-army-amasses-for-an-epic-battle-in-these-new-game-of-thrones-a146987>