

When Legends of Tomorrow returns next year, it will be on Tuesday nights, and we have a lot to look forward to based on the trailer below. The Legion of Doom (which seemingly won't include Captain Cold after all) now has a name, while romance is on the cards for Citizen Steel and JSA member Vixen. However, it's the return of Rip Hunter which is most interesting, especially as it's clear that he has no idea who he is or what the Legions wants from him. What's led to this change in the time traveller remains to be seen, but this preview doesn't offer many clues about what we should expect from that. Are you looking forward to the return of Legends of Tomorrow? Let us know in the comments section.
