

Logan is coming and based on everything we've seen so far, it's going to be one helluva ride. James Mangold helmed the highly anticipated feature, which stars Academy Award-nominee Hugh Jackman in his final performance as the beloved mutant Wolverine, a character he's portrayed for nearly two decades. The film will hold its world premiere at the esteemed Berlin International Film Festival, which kicks off February 9th, meaning we should start to hear first reactions long before the end of the month. As of right now, the movie is exactly one month away and 20th Century Fox has decided to reward fans by releasing two pretty awesome new TV spots featuring a ton of new footage of Jackman's Logan in action and we even get an Old Man Logan namedrop. There's also plenty of Dafne Keen's scene-stealing Laura and Patrick Stewart's Charles Xavier, who offers a few hints at the film's actual plot. Check out both new spots below: In the near future, a weary Logan cares for an ailing Professor
