

Back when Spider-Man: Turn Off The Dark opened up to a series of negative reviews, press rep Rick Miramontez responded by lashing out at the critics and calling them, "unprecedented and UNCOOL!" Well, when last night's episode of The Simpsons decided to take yet another swipe at the unlucky musical (which is now performing much better) he responded somewhat differently. "Everyone at Spider-Man: Turn Off The Dark was extremely flattered by last night's tribute on The Simpsons. The Simpsons is an iconic American institution, and being part of last night's episode was an honor and dream come true." Thanks to TMZ for that and the following video. video platformvideo managementvideo solutionsvideo player

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/joshw24/news/?a=49187&t=iTheSimpsonsiTakeASwipeAtDisasterProneMusicaliSpider-ManTurnOffTheDarki>