

"The entire landscape has fallen to zombies, Glem Mazzara tells Entertainment Weekly about where we find the group of survivors at the beginning of the third season. "The entire world has collapsed, the apocalypse has taken over, the zombies have taken over, there's no safe place. And I think in the past our characters thought they could find some safe harbor, and now there's just no good hiding place at all." Well, there is one safe place of course; the Prison which was introduced briefly at the end of the second season. "Just like in the comic books, she is a badass and she hates the walkers more than anything else," Mazzara says about the introduction of fan-favourite character Michonne. "She treats them with contempt. What's interesting about the version of this character is she has a lot of trouble fitting into human society. She's probably better off staying out there

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/JoshWildingNewsAndReviews/news/?a=63072>