

I loved the first season of AMC's The Walking Dead. I've never read the comics, but I would say that the show has something different from what we can see on TV these days. While many will think just because there are zombies, it is another story that we have seen in movies dozens of times, it's actually not, there is a lot more going on in the show, starting with characters. It's sort of like Fringe, which has science fiction elements, but there is so much to that story and interesting characters, and because of that, it is one my favorite shows on TV. Two days ago, Season 2 of The Walking Dead premiered, breaking the record in basic cable history (7.3 million total viewers). Basically, a lot of people still watch the show. I thought the first episode was really good. It starts little slow, but it sets everything

Read more: http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/Wolvie09/news/?a=48443&t=iThe_Walking_Deadi_Season_2_Premiere_What_Did_You_Think