

Says the show's exec producer Robert Kirkman.. “This season really is about setting up these two worlds and watching them come to a head and collide. And you know that there are going to be some pretty explosive encounters between Rick and the Governor. This season is going to be about getting to know these two characters, and then waiting for their eventual confrontation that could destroy everything.” The Walking Dead returns October 14th, and the latest issue of Entertainment Weekly is out now.

Read more: <http://www.comicbookmovie.com/fansites/roorschachsrrants/news/?a=66133>